A Summer Break

June is a lively month for most of us, what with school years’ endings, graduations, weddings, and visions of vacation possibilities—or just kicking back. That’s why there aren’t any at-large Association events scheduled for this month. But good things are coming soon, so stay tuned!

Trivia Night. On Tuesday, May 14, a group of 12 Phi Betes gathered for an evening of trivia, great company, and refreshments at the Hawk ‘n’ Dove on Capitol Hill. The Phi Betes’ trivial knowledge was on display that evening, as our group earned first place! The Hawk ‘n’ Dove presented our group with a first-place certificate and gift card, so we hope to return for another round sometime soon.
National Trails Day. A small but mighty group of Phi Betes volunteered early in the morning on Saturday, June 1 to help clean up Theodore Roosevelt Island as part of National Trails Day. This special effort, a program of the American Hiking Society, gathers volunteers across the country to clean the thousands of miles of trails across the United States. Afterward the group enjoyed some refreshments and won some free giveaways at the Georgetown Waterfront, which was hosted by Sierra Nevada.

YP Network Survey: The DCPBK YP Network strives to be as member-centric as possible when organizing our events and programs. So, we’d love to have your input and to learn more about what you want and expect out of your involvement in the YP Network. Please consider filling out this form: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/WSV26H9

Book Club Reviews and News
On Wednesday May 15th, eleven members of the Book Club met at one of our alternate locations, Cafe Deluxe in West End, for a discussion of Becoming by Michelle Obama. (We’ve taken to Cafe Deluxe as an alternative to Nagomi; while our love remains strong for Nagomi’s variety of delicious dishes, reasonable prices, and happy hour specials, Cafe Deluxe offers a burger deal on Wednesdays that can’t be beat. We see it as a treat to top off our special bonus book series.)

Becoming was one book selection that many members mentioned early on as a contender for a bonus meeting back in October 2018, understandable considering the buzz generated by its release. We noted Obama’s consistency in tone and theme, spanning the two naturally divided sections of the text: pre- and post- 2008. We remarked at her candid description of marriage and her characterization of Barack Obama and her own efforts as First Lady. More broadly, we discussed the role of the First Lady throughout history, and speculated on Obama’s intended audience and rationale for writing a book at this time.

Our regular monthly meeting for May was held on Monday, May 29th at Nagomi Izakaya downtown. Thirteen members gathered to reflect on the literary classic Go Tell it on the Mountain by James Baldwin. For most it was our first reading of a Baldwin text, and all were deeply moved by his frank narrative. We discussed ‘religion as armor,’ inter-generational conflict, the role of the reverend in Evangelicalism, and the motivations of various characters. All were left with a desire to research more deeply Baldwin’s involvement in the Civil Rights Movement, especially since so many videos and clips exist of Baldwin’s reflections on the racial context of America in the mid-20th century.

In addition to our two meetings in May, we concluded our biannual voting cycle, formally selecting the six books that will comprise our Fall 2019 (July-December) DCPBK Book Club series. The voting cycle begins when members who’ve attended in the last six months are asked to submit recommendations across our three categories of Fiction, Nonfiction, and Classics. Our coordinator then compiles all suggestions and sends out for review to the same audience. Voting takes place by email and at the May meeting. We are thrilled to announce our upcoming roster below. Tie-in events are in the works, and events will be added accordingly to the DC PBK website when planned, so stay tuned!

Note on Book Club Meeting-Attendee Cap
In order to ensure quality discussions, Book Club meetings are now limited to 18 attendees. Any more and meaningful group interaction becomes more difficult, even when split into smaller groups, and the restaurant that hosts us so graciously has asked us to cap it there. Please be sure to register early, and update your RSVP if you are later unable to attend, to make sure that everyone has a chance to participate.

All DCPBK members are invited to attend, and to bring along any books you’re looking to clean out, so that we can try to find new homes for them within the group.
